

200

St. Petersburg Times

Crime journal

TAMPA

Victim's friends hope for clues

Friends of homicide victim Tracy McClelland, whose body was found in a shallow grave in east Tampa in early 2007, will be passing out fliers and talking to neighbors in the Six Mile Creek neighborhood Saturday, hoping to stir up new tips on the unsolved killing. McClelland, a 36-year-old mother of three, died from upper-body trauma. Police unearthed her body at 2110 N 71st St. McClelland's friends have set up a Web site — whokilledme.tv — to generate new interest in the case. Anyone wishing to volunteer to help Saturday can visit the Web site for information or call (202) 403-2999.

McClelland